

Simon Mukanzu

Simon Mukanzu was born in the Copperbelt City of Kitwe in Zambia. He later moved to Mufulira where he started primary education at Kamuchanga Primary School in 1970. He completed his high school education at Mufulira secondary School in 1982.

In Zambia he worked for Zambia Consolidated Copper Mines, Mufulira Division as an Operator in the Concentrator Department up to 1992, thereafter, he was transferred to Medical department as an ambulance driver. He served at this position up to 1995.

In 2002 he joined his wife, Lillian, in Scotland Glasgow where they lived up to 2008. Whilst in Glasgow; Simon did a course in communication at Clydebank College and later worked for First Group Glasgow - the largest bus operating company in Scotland.

In 2008 he moved to Vancouver, British Columbia. In August, 2009 his family was privileged to host a meeting of Zambians and friends of Zambians in British Columbia. It was at this meeting where The Association of Zambians in British Columbia was born. Simon is currently working for Greyhound Canada in Vancouver. He is happily married to Lillian Mukanzu and they have four children. He is also a member of the “Events Organizing Committee” of the Zambian-Canadian Association of Families and Friends in British Columbia.
